

DANIEL W. ALDRIDGE, III

Department of History
Davidson College
PO Box 6902
Davidson, N.C. 28035-6902
(704) 894-2776
daaldridge@davidson.edu

CURRENT POSITION

Associate Professor of History

Davidson College, Davidson, N.C.

PREVIOUS POSITION

Assistant Professor of History

Ursinus College, Collegeville, PA (1998-2000)

EDUCATION

Ph.D. History

Emory University (1998)

J.D.

Northwestern University Law School (1986)

B.A.

Michigan State University (1983)

DISSERTATION

Title: Visions of a New World Order: Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Origins of the United Nations Organization, 1913-1945.

PUBLICATIONS

Articles:

“Black Powerlessness in a Liberal Era: The NAACP, Anticolonialism and the United Nations Organization, 1942-1945,” in M. E. Callahan and R. M. Douglas, eds., Imperialism on Trial: International Supervision of Colonial Rule in Comparative Perspective (Lanham, MD: Lexington Books, 2006), 85-111.

“A War for the Colored Races: Anti-Interventionism and the African American Intelligentsia, 1939-1941,” Diplomatic History 28, 3 (June 2004): 321-52.

Reviews:

Carol Anderson, “Eyes Off The Prize: The United Nations and the African American Struggle for Human Rights, 1944-1955,” Journal of Southern History (November 2004): 964-65.

Marc Gallicchio, “The African-American Encounter with Japan and China: Black Internationalism in Asia, 1895-1945,” Intelligence and National Security (Autumn 2002) 188-89.

Dean J. Kotlowski, “Nixon’s Civil Rights: Politics, Principle and Policy,” Georgia Historical Quarterly (Summer 2002) 329-31.

John T. McNay, "Acheson and Empire: The British Accent in American Foreign Policy," Intelligence and National Security (Spring 2002): 168-70.

Penny M. Von Eschen, "Race Against Empire: Black Americans and Anticolonialism, 1937-1957," Intelligence and National Security (Winter 2002): 211-12

Encyclopedia Articles:

"African Americans (Freed People)," Americans at War: Society, Culture, and the Homefront (Macmillan Library Reference, in press).

"Frederick Douglass," Americans at War: Society, Culture, and the Homefront (Macmillan Library Reference, in press).

MAJOR CONFERENCE PAPERS PRESENTED

"A Militant Liberalism: Anticommunism and the African-American Intelligentsia." American Historical Association, Washington, D.C., January 2004.

"Opportunity Lost: African-American Public Intellectuals, the Roosevelt Administration, and the Creation of the United Nations Trusteeship Council, 1941-1945." Society for Historians of American Foreign Relations, Toronto, Canada, June 2000.

MAJOR CONFERENCE PANELS CHAIRED

"Black Masculinity, War and National Belonging." American Studies Association, Hartford CT, October 2003.

GRANTS AND FELLOWSHIPS

Dorothy Danforth Compton Fellowship
for Minority Group Students of World Affairs

Institute for the Study of World Politics (1997-98)

Honorable Mention—Ford Foundation
Dissertation Fellowships for Minorities

Ford Foundation
(1997-98)

Dean's Teaching Fellowship

Emory University (1996-97)

David A. Morse Research Fellowship

Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt
Institute (1996-97)

Emory Minority Fellowship

Emory University (1992-96)

Wigmore Scholarship

Northwestern University
Law School (1983-86)

PROFESSIONAL MEMBERSHIPS

Society for Historians of American Foreign Relations

American Historical Association
American Studies Association