

Merit-Based Scholarships

Through The Davidson Trust, Davidson is committed to a strong need-based financial aid program to assist students whose families are unable to finance the full cost of a Davidson education.

Davidson offers admission to those students in each year's applicant pool whose significant achievement and potential will enrich the college community. In addition, Davidson awards merit-based scholarships to approximately 10 percent of each enrolling class in recognition of outstanding academic and personal excellence, leadership, service, the arts, and athletics.

Merit-based awards are made without regard to financial need and are intended to recognize those students whose accomplishments mark them as having extraordinary potential for impact on the Davidson community and future contributions to society. Recipients are selected primarily on the basis of the strength of their applications for admission. In the case of interest- or talent-specific scholarships, selection is also based on the outcome of an audition, writing sample, portfolio review, and/or interview.

All merit scholarships are renewable for a student's four years at Davidson, provided grade point average, progress-toward-degree requirements, and any award-specific requirements are met. A description follows of the four types of merit scholarships that are available.

In order to be considered, a student's application for admission must be completed by January 2 (unless otherwise indicated). Notifications regarding merit-based scholarships will be made by April 20.
